County Fair Opens To Record Throng

Gates opened Monday to admit a throng to the opening day of Alpena County Fair, a holiday crowd in holiday mood, setting what was probably a record of attendance for the opening day.

Attractions galore were on location and all did a great business. Exhibition halls were filled with excellent displays eliciting commendation from the throng winding its way from place to place.

The grounds were bustling with activity afternoon and evening and every attraction was up to standard. In the livestock barns, cattle, horses, sheep and hogs drew visitors who saw one of the finest exhibits in several years.

Crowd Thrilled

Thrill after thrill was given by the Congress of Daredevils who did the apparently impossible with motor cycles and automobiles, escaping by a hairsbreadth, death or injury while the crowd held its breath. The exhibition was one of the most spectacular ever witnessed. Afternoon and evening exhibitions were given.

The giant musical revue given before the grand stand drew rounds of applause from the stand filled to capacity while hundreds viewed the spectacle from other points of view.

Hampered somewhat by the high wind, the revue worked at a disadvantage at the evening performance but nevertheless gave a thoroughly satisfactory performance.

Under the caption "Here's to You," it is a production worth seeing—music, dancing, excellent scenic designs and a patriotic finale—a worthwhile show.

Star Race Program

When the racing program opened this afternoon, a galaxy of star horses were at the track. This afternoon's card held two events—the 2:17 pace and the three-year-old trot, open to Michigan-owned horses or those eligible to enter a 2:28 event.

Wednesday's card books three events, one of which will be a running race for Alpena county owned horses, five or more to start. Others are a 2:17 trot and a three-year-old pace.

The feature free attraction, "Here's to You," will be presented every day in front of the grand stand afternoon and evening.

Horsepulling contests are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday at 1 p.m. Baseball and other events round out a great sports program.

U.S. Embargo Set to Start

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The United States served formal notice on the world today that it is determined to maintain a strict neutrality in the European conflict.

President Roosevelt signed the proclamation shortly after 1 p. m.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Great Britain, France and all other European belligerents will be forbidden by nightfall to purchase arms, ammunition and war implements in the United States.

President Roosevelt has decided to invoke our arms-embargo neutrality act sometime today.

His proclamation will launch the administration's pre-special session campaign to persuade Congress to amend the act so that belligerents—in this instance probably only France, Britain and Poland—could buy here all they could pay for and transport.

First move toward insulating the United States against war came last night in State Department regulations imposing severe restrictions on departure of American citizens for foreign ports.

Administration strategy apparently is on an hour-basis.

The Navy Department will decide today whether to provide warship escorts for American vessels bringing our citizens home from war zones. A significant plan under consideration would call for Anglo-American naval cooperation wherein British warships would escort American passenger liners halfway across the Atlantic to be relieved there by American warships.

It was learned that several American republics, including the United States, are considering consultations among the 21 American nations to form a Pan-American policy on problems arising out of the European war. Such consultation was provided under the declaration of Lima.

What in today's neutrality proclamation is the question of war planes already ordered by Great Britain and France. Many of these orders have not been filled. How much, if any, an immediate embargo would hurt the airplane industry and add to unemployment are questions to which none here has made any public estimate so far.

The first of two proclamations will assert United States neutrality in terms of international law. The second will invoke the arms-embargo neutrality statute.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace announced formation of an agriculture advisory council to help shape crisis farm policies. It will meet Sept. 19.

Attorney General Frank Murphy is examining statutes which might bear on profiteering. He has been instructed to determine what more is required in that respect.

Holidays Bring Throng to City

All roads evidently led to Alpena at the holiday week-end, the vanguard arriving early Saturday morning followed by a motorcade of hundreds during the day.

Saturday evening, the city took on a holiday appearance as visitors motored around the city or milled along the sidewalks exchanging greetings. Cabins, tourist rooms and hotels were filled to capacity and every available room in the city was requisitioned to house the visitors.

At the inland lakes, cottages and hotels did a great business while at Mich-E-Ke-Wis Park, house trailers and tents housed another crowd.

Traffic was heavy on state and county roads, yet despite the traffic, no accident was reported.

Business generally was at peak, gas stations reporting one of the busiest week-ends in some time. From a general survey, it is believed that the Labor Day week-end brought the largest crowd of the season to Alpena and the adjacent territory.

Student Army Answers Call Of School Bell

The student army of Alpena went in march today as schools opened for the 1939-1940 year, every school reporting large enrollments.

At Alpena High School, the enrollment is soaring to an all-time record and other high schools report increase denrollments. Exact figures will not be available for a few days.

At St. Bernard's, an entire new faculty assumed charge today as the Dominican Order was installed replacing the Sisters of Charity who had occupied the staff for more than 50 years.

Eight new teachers are on the faculty list of the public schools, four in high school and four in elementary schools. Four new teachers are noted at St. Mary's and one at St. Anne's.

It was a great day for the crowd of little folks entering school for the first time this morning in kindergarten or in first grades. Equally important was the day for more than 300 students in the three high schools making their entrance as freshmen.

Schools closed this afternoon to permit pupils to attend Children's Day at the County Fair while teachers will assemble to round out assignments and work plans. On Thursday afternoon, pupils will have another half-holiday for the Fair.

Detroit Officer Freed From Jail

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—Police Lieut. John P. McCarthy was released last midnight from a jail cell he preferred for five days rather than "purge" himself before a grand jury investigating alleged police dishonesty.

Meanwhile, Judge Homer Ferguson, acting as a one-man grand jury in the inquiry, said he had not decided whether to call McCarthy into the chambers for further questioning.

The judge said he would confer with Special Prosecutor Chester P. O'Hara before making a statement concerning McCarthy. The grand jury reconvened this morning.

WAR BULLETINS

ESBJERG, Denmark, Sept. 5.—A government commission came here today to investigate yesterday's bombing by an unidentified airplane in which two citizens of this neutral country were killed and at least 10 injured. Observers said it was miraculous that so few were killed when the plane, flying at great height, sent four bombs crashing down on this seaport town on the North Sea coast, about 45 miles from the German border. The only shell to make a direct hit smashed into a multiple dwelling structure of 12 flats, destroying the building. Many of the residents were in the yard at the time and thus were saved, although badly shaken and panic-stricken.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The government announced today that German soldiers on the Siegfried Line and French soldiers on the Maginot Line have painted signs on their pill boxes, within view of one another, reading: "We won't shoot if you don't shoot."

ROME, Sept. 5.—Italy's neutrality became more firmly established today with preparations for resumption of international shipping services, but the Italian press insisted that she may become a factor in war at any time.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Reports were received here today that in addition to the German steamer Olinda, sunk off Brazil by the British cruiser Ajax, the German steamer Carl Fritzen has been sunk.

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Sept. 5.—Slovakia is allied with Germany, Dr. Josef Tiso, premier of Slovakia, said today. Addressing the heads of the Slovak people's party Premier Tiso said: "An alliance with Germany appears to be the best means of maintaining the integrity of Slovakia. Accordingly the government will continue vigorously its present policies."

BURGOS Spain, Sept. 5.—Gen. Francisco Franco decreed Spanish neutrality today.

DANZIG, Sept. 5.—All Polish property, both state and individual, has been confiscated and placed under the trusteeship of a state commissioner, it was announced here today.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—A German seaplane patrol shot down a British bomber off Doggerbank Monday afternoon, it was announced here today. Later the German patrol alighted on the sea and rescued the British crew from their sinking plane.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Fifty German air raiders bombed and partially destroyed a Red Cross train near Szydlowicz, Poland, today, the Polish telegraph agency reported.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 5.—Eleven German ships were anchored today at Vera Cruz and Tampico, taking refuge from enemy warships.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 5.—Netherlands anti-aircraft batteries opened fire at a "few airplanes of unknown nationality" which flew near Amsterdam, it was announced officially today. It was not known whether any were shot down.

Fire Destroys Officers Hall At Camp Skeel

(Special to The News)

OSCODA, Sept. 5.—Fire caused by the explosion of oil in a heating plant totally destroyed the officers' special quarters at Camp Skeel at noon Saturday, with a loss of $8,000. The fire was well in hand through efforts of the air corps when the camp chemical distributor broke down and could not be operated.

Oscoda's fire engine and equipment was under way to the camp one minute after the alarm was received here, but the fire had made such headway by the time of its arrival that the flames could not be checked. The department's chemical pumps saved the remaining buildings, including the men's big mess and bunk halls.

The officer's quarters was a deluxe building with a large fireplace which was the pride of the camp. The present pursuit group under command of Captain Clayton E. Hughes leaves for Selfridge Field Sept. 6, and will be replaced by a similar group on or about Sept. 12. The groups which have occupied the camp throughout the summer have consisted of 25 officers and 100 men each, with from 20 to 30 planes in the target and bombing practice.

DROWNED AT VAN ETTAN

Precipitated into the water when a rope with which he was lifting a heavy anchor gave way, John H. Abbott, 56, of 14899 Fuller Street, Detroit, was drowned Sunday in Lake Van Ettan, north of Oscoda. The body was recovered Monday.

Polish Government Prepares To Move to Another City

Nazis Report Wide Advance

BY FREDERICK OECHSNER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Sept. 5—Official reports of smashing German victories in Poland, and announcement that 12 British planes were shot down during raids on German naval bases at Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven caused mass rejoicing in Berlin today.

The entire Silesian industrial area of Poland was reported here to be in German hands and it was also officially announced that the great northern Polish fortress of Grandenz had been captured.

German army high command official claims of victory included:

1—German capture of the important Polish city of Kattowice and the neighboring town of Novyzhorzow, placing the entire Silesian industrial district in German hands.

2—German capture of the great northern Polish fortress of Graudenz, the key to the control of north Poland.

3—German crossing of the Vistula river south of Culm under the personal supervision of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, now in the field with his eastern armies.

4—German announcement that shattered Polish armies are falling back in disorder on Cracow, 445 miles inland from Kattowice.

5—German capture in hand to hand fighting of Mlawa, only 55 miles north of Warsaw, the Polish capital.

Official announcement of last night's British air raids said that the 12 RAF planes shot down were one half of the raiding force. The only damage resulting from the British attack, the army said, was caused when one of the falling planes struck the deck of a ship.

70 Miles From Warsaw

Germany's southern army in Poland, a communique said, is only 70 miles from Warsaw. It is driving up the Warsaw-Czestochowa railroad and has reached Kamiens, 70 miles south of the capital. The left wing of the southern army is maintaining a protective drive from Wielun, 30 miles from the large textile center of Lodz which is regarded as one of the gateways to Warsaw.

The communique said also that German troops had annihilated the 7th division of the Polish army in fighting south of Czestochowa, Poland's national shrine to the Virgin Mary. The divisional staff was captured.

"German troops have broken enemy resistance and are continuing to advance irresistibly," the communique said. "The number of prisoners as well as booty is increasing. In the south the advance on Cracow is continuing. Javergno

Four of 15 Michigan Persons Aboard Athenia Reported Safe

LONDON, Sept. 5.—A survey of British ports by the United Press today showed that approximately 1,000 of the 1,400 passengers on the liner Athenia already have been accounted for. Apparently the majority of the 311 Americans on the ship were saved.

By CLIFFORD L. DAY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Survivors of the British liner Athenia said today that a submarine torpedoed the ship without warning and afterward came to the surface and fired two shells at it as the crew aided passengers into lifeboats. They estimated that 90 persons were killed.

Three rescue ships arrived with survivors, including hundreds of Americans and Canadians.

Two arrived at Greenock, Scotland, and one, the Norwegian freight steamship Knute Nelson, at Galway, Ireland.

It was estimated that nearly 600 were landed at Greenock and up to 800 at Galway.

But no doubt was left that there had been a disaster. Some were killed in the first explosion, others perished in the sea as rescue ships tried to save them.

Ambulances and surgeons waited both at Greenock and Galway to take care of the wounded among the distraught, scantily dressed, oil stained penniless, men, women and children.

John McEwan, storekeeper of the Athenia, said at Greenock:

Felt Impact

"I was with my chum in our cabin at 7:30 p.m. (Sunday) when we heard a terrific bang.

"We knew at once what it was. (Some of the Athenia crew were survivors of World War submarine attacks.)

"We put on our life belts and went to our boat stations.

"Several times during the night, when we were in the life boat, we heard the submarine passing below us.

"She remained on the spot for several hours after sinking us.

"The conduct of the passengers was magnificent.

"I don't know how many were killed on the ship but the talk on the way over here would seem to indicate that there were 90 killed then.

Saw Sub Break Surface

"There was a great deal of smoke where the torpedo struck the Athenia. There was an internal explosion.

"But through the smoke we saw the submarine break the surface and before we knew where we were she had turned her gun on us and fired two shells.

"Every boat was away within an hour after the explosion.

"The ship at first listed badly when the explosion occurred. Then she righted herself and began to go down slowly by the head.

"When everybody was in boats and had gone away one boat was seen to turn back. We learned afterward that a woman on board on whom an operation had been performed had been left aboard the Athenia. The boat went back and brought her off."

Survivors ridiculed the idea that the Athenia could have struck a mine. Several said that after firing the torpedo the submarine released a "gas" shell.

Struck Amidships

Several members of the crew said they saw the submarine at a distance of about 100 yards. Another put it at a quarter of a mile.

Able Seaman H. Dillon said the torpedo struck the Athenia amidships at about No. 5 hatch.

Several members of the crew said two shells were fired at the ship.

(A little while before the survivors landed, Baron Ernst Von Weizsaecker, secretary of state of the German foreign office, assured Alexander C. Kirk, charge d'affaires of the American embassy, that the German navy had had no part in the disaster.)

Dillon's story and a description of the scenes after the attack, made it evident that the death toll would prove heavy.

Dillon said:

Describes Mishap

"Three other members of the crew and I had charge of one boat.

"It contained 52 women.

"When the Norwegian ship (the Knute Nelson) came to our rescue we drew alongside and made fast. But our boat got under the stern of the vessel and was struck by the propellor. The bottom was knocked out of our boat. Several in our boat were killed and there were only about seven or eight survivors altogether in our boat."

The Southern Cross dispatch told of the scene which was presented when she arrived to join the Knute Nelson in rescue work:

Lifeboats dotted over a rough, moon strewn sea . . . flares burning . . . shouts and screams for help coming from every direction . . . a lifeboat capsizing, most of its people being saved . . . a young mother, rescued from this boat, sitting dazed for a minute and then jumping into the sea with the despairing shriek "My baby!" . . . those on the yacht watching helplessly, busy in tending others, as victim after victim sank beneath the waves . . . people sitting waist deep, quietly, in overfilled lifeboats which settled slowly in the water . . . a Russian Jewish couple, going to a new home in America, watching as their two young sons went down . . . survivors with clothes torn off, black with grease, barefooted, penniless . . . and smiling as those on the yacht smiled to them. . . .

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—Four of the 15 Michigan residents aboard the ill-fated English liner Athenia today were reported safe with no word from the other 11 and a possible 12th.

The Michigan persons reported aboard were:

Miss Barbara Bradfield of Grand Rapids, a recent graduate of the University of Michigan.

John Harju, of Copper City, believed to be a passenger.

The remainder, all of Detroit: Mrs. Caroline Prine and her daughter, Virginia; Mrs. Jessie Morrison and son, Jack; Mrs. Julia Martin, Miss Isabel Martin, Mrs. Ethel Battye, Mrs. Robert W. Hannah, Virginia Roberts, James Boyle, Helen Dougan, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Brenda Chapman and Tommy Chapman.

Definite word had been received that Helen Dougan, Brenda and Tommy Chapman, and Mrs. Brown were safe, although Miss Dougan was reported to have suffered body and head injuries.

French Army Into Trenches

BY JOE ALEX MORRIS
(U. P. Foreign News Editor)

Indications that the Polish government is planning to evacuate Warsaw and make its headquarters in some other city reached the United Press today in heavily censored dispatches from the Polish capital.

The German armies reported that they had smashed their way into the rich Silesian industrial district, capturing the key city of Kattowice and had thrust downward from East Prussia on a front less than 50 miles north of Warsaw. Nazi planes continued regular bombardment of the Polish capital, where many fires were started by incendiary bombs.

These sledge-hammer blows against the Polish defenses were followed by dispatches reporting the departure of U. S. Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle and his family from Warsaw. It was understood the British embassy staff would depart for an unannounced destination.

Then came a message from Warsaw saying that, while there was no panic, many persons were loading their belongings into any transport available, and that trains were crowded by families carrying their belongings.

Another message reported that the government press bureau was planning to leave Warsaw and still another, mutilated by censorship, quoted reports that the government was planning to move to new quarters.

A still later message mentioned the possibility of immediate departure, presumably of the government, but apparently due to the censorship the exact meaning of this dispatch was not clear.

If the Polish government leaves Warsaw, it was believed it would go southeastward to Lubin, 95 miles away and toward the Rumanian frontier. There they would be able to avoid being trapped with no avenue for escape from Poland. Lwow is still further on toward Rumania.

French Troops in Trenches

There was no indication in messages from Warsaw, however, as to where the government would go if it leaves the capital. All references were to "an unknown destination."

Meanwhile, Great Britain and France sought to come to grips with the Germans on the western front (Rhineland) in order to relieve pressure on the Poles. The French troops moved into their front line trenches on the border and German forces did likewise, going into a zone six miles wide between the main fortifications on each side.

Both Paris and Berlin agreed, however, that the "engagement" up

YACHT HARBOR PROFITS CITY

BERKELEY, Cal. (U.P.)—West Coast families are so far from being "down to their last yacht," that the city of Berkeley actually makes a profit out of maintaining a yacht harbor. Receipts last year totaled $17,000 as against $15,000 cost of operation. Some 212 yachts already have moorings there, with 60 applications waiting.

MURAL NAMED FOR DICKINSON

BERKELEY, Cal. (U.P.)—Robert Rogers and Miss Marjorie, local muralist, had just completed a huge mural, intitled "Street Brawl," and which was all if not more than its name indicated, when Gov. Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan started his "sin-slamming." They at once renamed the mural "Dickinson's Dream of Washington."

Prices Soar on Stock Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The American public climbed aboard the Stock Market today just as it did in the late 1920's and prices soared 5 to 25 points.

Trading was the heaviest since Oct. 19, 1937. The 5,000,000 share mark was crossed early in the last hour. Trading in bonds was around the heaviest for any day in history because of huge turnover in United States government issues which had losses ranging to more than a point.

Demand for stocks centered on the war babies in the early trading. Gains were registered in steels, non-ferrous metals, sugars, chemicals, shipping issues, textiles, and airplanes. As the close approached, the groups neglected earlier were brought more nearly into line with a higher market level. These included the utilities and some special issues.

CHICAGO, Sep. 5.—Frenzied buying in anticipation of war-time demand sent grain prices skyrocketing in all markets today. Quotations in each case reached the prescribed limit. Wheat at Chicago was up 5 cents, corn 4 cents, oats 3 cents, rye 5 cents and soybeans 4 cents. Similar gains were registered at Winnipeg, Minneapolis and Kansas City.

After prices had reached the permissible limits, trading came to a standstill. In Chicago wheat [illegible] the 80 cents a bushel [illegible] tations were above the government loan level. May corn at 57 and [illegible] eighth cents also was higher than the loan figure.

WARSAW, Sept. 4.—A foreign legion of Czechs and Slovaks is fighting under the red and white barred flag of Poland, the government announced today. A government proclamation called on former citizens of Czechoslovakia, the nation dismembered by Adolf Hitler, to take up arms against the "hereditary enemy" — Germany. The proclamation urged Czechs and Slovaks still under domination of the swastika to do everything in their power to sabotage the German war machine.

Mary Filipiak, Albert Frantz, Wed at Rectory

Miss Margaret Filipiak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Filipiak, 119 Huron street, became the bride of Albert Frantz-jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frantz-sr., Monday morning at a ceremony performed at ten o'clock at the rectory of St. Mary's church. Rev. C. Walkowiak, assistant pastor, performed the ceremony.

The bride's gown of white taffeta had a sweetheart neckline and the puffed sleeves were elbow length. Sprays of orange blossoms were caught at the neck and the sleeves. The skirt ended in a long train. Her finger tip length veil was lace edged and had a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Doris Filipiak, sister of the bride, wore rose taffeta. Her headdress was a single gardenia from which fell long blue streamers. She carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mr. Frantz was attended by Orlando Nelson.

Mrs. Filipiak, mother of the bride, wore wine crape and Mrs. Frantz wore crepe in a plum shade. Both had corsages of sweet peas.

Breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, guests including members of the two families and a few close friends. Gladioli and other garden flowers decorated the long table which was centered with a wedding cake. Mrs. Jasper Nowak and Mrs. Philip Kowalski, sisters of the bride, assisted in serving. A reception followed from two until four o'clock following which dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Frantz then left on a wedding trip to New York City. Mrs. Frantz wearing a dress of teal blue suede cloth with black accessories. After September fifteenth they will be at home at 108 [illegible] street.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Michael Budnick and two sons, Edward and Ernest of Detroit.

New Law Takes Guess from Eggs

LANSING, Sept. 5. After September 25, the housewives of Michigan seeking eggs for delicious meals no longer will be guessing at quality or sizes, providing she specifies "fresh" rather than "just eggs." Under the provisions of the new egg law, supplemented by rules and regulations issued by Agricultural Commissioner Elmer A. Beamer, egg purchasers will be protected both as to quality and size. Leaders in the poultry industry of the state expressing opinion that to recapture consumer confidence will prove of benefit to the industry as a whole.

The law and supplemental rules and regulations provide, briefly, for placarding all bulk lots, for marking of all cartons and other containers, against the misuse of marked containers and prohibits false advertising of eggs. The first provision, as applying to bulk eggs, provides for marking of all eggs by the display of an 8½x11 card, advising the customers if the eggs are "large," "medium," "small" or "peewee" in size and the grade designation, if above Grade C in quality. If no marking as to grade the housewife will avoid the purchase of such eggs if she desires to use them for table purposes.

There is a tightening of regulations regarding cartons, with the purpose of eliminating all false wordage, and cartons provide information necessary for the Department of Agriculture to check violations of the new law.

Commissioner Beamer pointed out that the "truth in advertising" clause would prove especially beneficial because if eggs are advertised as "strictly fresh" the eggs sold must be "Grade A" eggs, advertised as "fresh" must meet the requirements of "Grade B" eggs. The department is printing books containing details of the egg laws and descriptions of grades, available by writing Department of Agriculture, Lansing, Michigan.

Your Body

By R. A. SEPULL

People who make financial investments seldom do so without a consultation with a banker or financial counselor. Likewise they employ an attorney before making a legal move.

Unfortunately many do not use the same foresight when their bodies show signs of need of medical care. With incomplete understanding of the cause they attempt, usually through some fantastic treatment, to restore health.

Mastery of detailed ramifications of bodily ailments can not be attained except through the long training period a doctor of medicine passes to enable him to help you to retain or regain your health.

For your present and future welfare be persistent in checking with your doctor at frequent intervals. Also check with him as to the pharmacist adequately equipped by experience and with drugs to compound prescriptions exactly as they should be.

Miss Niewola Wed in Rites At St. Mary's

A profusion of white gladioli adorned the altar of St. Mary's church before which Irene Marie Niewola and Leo A. Przykucki exchanged their marriage vows at a nuptial high mass Monday morning at seven o'clock. Rev. Dean John E. Gatzke performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Niewola, 535 Washington avenue, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Przykucki, 501 Minor street.

The bride entered the church with her father, advancing to the altar where she was met by the bridegroom and his attendant his brother Michael Przykucki. For her bridal gown she chose ivory slipper satin simply but beautifully fashioned. The close fitting bodice had short puffed sleeves and tiny satin covered buttons extended from the neck to the waistline in back. Two pearl clips were caught at the neck and the gored skirt ended in a slight train. Her lace edged, finger tip length veil was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses showered with valley lilies and forget-me-nots.

Miss Jeannette Niewola, cousin of the bride, bridesmaid, wore blue net over taffeta, the dress being trimmed with tiny bows of pale pink velvet. Her headdress was three blue gardenias and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses tied with blue.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Niewola chose a gown of aqua crepe with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Przykucki, mother of the bridegroom, wore chartreuse with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The Bridal March from Lohengrin was played for the processional and the wedding march from Midsummer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn for the recessional. Raymond Niewola, brother of the bride, organist played Emerson's Mass in C which was sung by the senior choir. Mrs. M. W. Ryan, aunt of the bride, sang the Veni Creator and at Offertory Mrs. Raymond Niewola and Louis Przykucki sang the Our Father. "Holy Mother" was sung as the Communion hymn.

Breakfast was served to forty guests at Twin Acres. A large wedding cake and bowls of cut flowers were used on the long table.

From twelve until three o'clock a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Louis Ryan and Mrs. R. A. Davison presiding at the table from which buffet refreshments were served.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Przykucki left on a northern wedding trip. For traveling Mrs. Przykucki wore a three piece suit of teal blue with a lynx collar and black accessories.

They will be at home after September fifteenth at 2113 Bonbright, Flint.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scarlott of Linden, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Benedict and Mr. and Mrs. Clem Wysocki of Flint; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Osborn and daughter, June of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. James Niewola and daughter Jeannette and John Switalski of Detroit.

Bride and bridesmaid wore costume suits. The bride wore a suit of port wine with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. MacArthur wore brown with green accessories and a corsage of mums and yellow roses.

Following the ceremony breakfast was served at the Allen El-Hotel. Centering the table was a wedding cake circled by four white tapers. Flanking this centerpiece were two bowls of gardenias.

Why the War Is On

In seven damning sentences, Neville Chamberlain, prime minister of England, broadcasting to the German people, yesterday put into the record the reasons why the democracies have come to grips with Hitler's "tyrannous regime." Here they are:

"He (Hitler) gave his word that he would respect the Locarno treaty; he broke it.

"He gave his word that he neither wished nor intended to annex Austria; he broke it.

"He declared he would not incorporate the Czechs in the Reich; he did so.

"He gave his word after Munich that he had no further territorial demands in Europe; he broke it.

"He gave his word he wanted no Polish provinces, he broke it.

"He has sworn to you for years he was the mortal enemy of Bolshevism; he is now its ally.

"Can you wonder that for us his word is not worth the paper it is written on!"

It's a safe bet that Letter Carrier Arthur Bailey believes the stray dog nuisance should be controlled. He was bitten twice within three months and by the same dog.

Labor

Labor Day was all but forgotten in the hustle of handling the war news, but it is not yet too late to observe that the dawn of Labor Day this year found the outlook for labor good, better than in some time past. The stage is set for progress. Business is improving, which means that employment is growing. Experts are prophesying continued progress and expansion for perhaps the next three years.

Many believe this should happen almost regardless of whether Europe is at war or peace. War orders would naturally stimulate business and industry, but assurance of peace might have an even more bullish effect.

There are then favorable indications for American labor. But it is well known that two factors have held labor back in recent years, and may continue to do so. One is the warfare between rival groups of workers, and the other is the tolerance of unwise and unfair conditions in some labor unions.

Probably most of the American public believes that organized labor has been unwise in demanding, in skilled trades, not only the highest wages the traffic will bear, but more than it will bear. This has been especially true in the building trades.

In that field there is general belief that workmen would have much more employment, and make much more money, if they reduced top wage scales and reformed mischievous trade rules. They might also gain much by eliminating some leaders in whom the public lacks confidence.

City Play-places

Westerly, R. I., is having trouble with people who want to bathe and picnic on its shores and those who own scattered bits of short front and consider the bathers trespassers. The Westerly Sun says there is only one way to solve such problems.

"That way is for the town or state to purchase a long stretch of ocean front where these unwanted guests from all New England may find room to bathe and play in the breakers, and not be told they are trespassing. Westerly people have a moral right to expect to find a way to the sea, a place of their own. No one has a right, except from selfish and shortsighted motives, to deny it to them."

Here is illustrated an old story. A town has space adjoining it with natural features of beauty and enjoyment. These may be woods, hills, rocks, rivers or the ocean. To a small rural group of people the land looks of little value. When foresighted ones propose to buy it for public park, they are ridiculed and shouted down. Later the town grows, park space is needed, it is no longer available in large tracts, but must be bought piece by piece, buildings perhaps razed and large expense undertaken.

An intelligent citizenry should by now understand that parks are always needed, and should be bought and developed early in the day when land is cheap and easy to get and hold.

Bruce Catton...

... In Washington

No one who returns to Washington at this time, after a tour through the country, can fail to be impressed by the thought that it will be a tremendous tragedy and a colossal blunder if the leadership down here does not find some way of keeping America entirely out of any catastrophe which may befall Europe.

Any trip out into the nation today is bound to give a thoughtful person two firm convictions—

First, in spite of our unsolved problems, we still possess an empire whose riches are almost untapped, comparatively speaking.

Second, the human material the country has to work with is [illegible] up of as fine a lot of folks as any [illegible] could possibly ask for.

The sheer physical richness of the country fairly hammers on your eyes as you travel.

Your train flashes by great mining areas whose only fault is that they produce too richly. Your car winds through fertile lands whose one flaw is that they are too fertile. Your plane goes over an industrial empire which would be without a flaw if only it wasn't equipped to make more things than the country can handle right now.

After you have looked at such things day after day, you begin to understand as you never understood before how much our attention and our effort ought to be turned inward, not across the seas—and what a tremendous, lasting boom will get under way once we get the knack of making all of this richness work for us and not against us.

Then there are the people. . . .

It isn't just a matter of their being friendly. There's a competence to them, an industry, an inborn desire to get on with one another, which sticks out even in a country which has to worry about strikes and relief labor and economic royalists.

Those young marines on the train bound for the Camp Perry, O., rifle matches . . . the stewardess on the airliner . . . the milk strike farmer in upper New York, lean and sunburned . . . that Boston banker who joked about his own Yankee caution . . . the politician in Detroit who put his feet on his desk and talked about the piney lakes in upper Michigan . . . the North Carolina newspaper publisher who wasn't above inviting a comparative stranger to stay over a day and go deep-sea fishing . . .

They're pretty grand people, those, and the 130-odd million like them.

We don't know our luck. We've got everything. Over in Europe the [illegible] are blotting out the sunset; maybe it's going to be night over there for a long while, a night filled with terrible things, the figures of stricken cities and the cries of anguished children.

But we [illegible] while it [illegible] for the [illegible].

Louisiana Hayride No Empty Term

BY WILLIS THORNTON

That jolly little jingle-song called "Louisiana Hayride" attempted to picture the pleasure of these informal festivities in the Pelican State. But it was a pale description compared with the realities of the hayride on which the late Huey Long took his fellow-citizens. Farther north, they call it a sleigh-ride.

Twenty-seven men are now under arrest. 10 have resigned state positions under fire, six have been fired and five have been suspended in the shakeout which has followed Louisiana's ride whose motto seems to have been "Share the Stealth."

Huey didn't succeed in making "Every Man a King," but he did succeed in creating quite an aristocracy of predatory barons, knights and viscounts who occupied privileged positions in which the takings were good, for a time. Fortunately this aristocracy will not be hereditary since most of the titles will probably soon be exchanged for numbers.

The United States' first sampling of a local variety of quasi-Fascism leaves a bitter after-taste not conducive of a second experiment.

WHY BLOOD IS BEING SHED

Herman W. Dietz, well-known businessman, is now sole owner of the Blanchard-Dietz Dairy, State avenue, it was announced this week.

"I can assure all friends and patrons," said Mr. Dietz today, "that we shall continue to serve them faithfully, courteously as we have done in the past. Personally, I consider the handling and distribution of milk as a public service, for upon it depends the health of men, women and children."

Dr. Dietz has had a wide experience in the dairy business. For several years he was employed by the Wilson Creamery Co., in Detroit, where he rose from the position of helper to superintendent within a period of only four years.

He returned to Alpena in 1931 and for five years operated a farm dairy near Cathro, later entering partnership with William Blanchard.

"Naturally I know a lot of people in this locality," said Mr. Dietz, "because I was born and raised here and because I have never ceased to take an interest in civic events."

Mr. Dietz has been a scout leader for several years, both in Detroit and Alpena.

The Blanchard-Dietz Dairy is completely equipped for scientific pasteurization of milk. Milk is always handled under the most sanitary conditions. Recent extensive remodeling has added to the attractiveness and convenience of the main building.—adv.

In announcing myself as sole owner of the Blanchard-Dietz Dairy I want to express my gratitude to the people of Alpena for their patronage, and assure them I shall always try to serve them a little better each day.

Airtemps Win Pair of Games

The Alpena Airtemps managed to collect nine hits in two games at Market Square Sunday afternoon but they won both games, defeating East Jordan 4-3 in a league tilt and Nicholson Hill Grange 4-0 in a short seven-inning affair.

Arnold Bey scattered eight East Jordan hits while striking out eight to add one more win to his record. Chuck Sommerville held the locals to four blows but allowed three of them in the third inning when the boys coaxed three markers across.

East Jordan hacked away at that lead until they tied the score in the seventh. The locals won the tilt in the eighth. Franklin walked, moved to second on Stepaniak's sacrifice, to third as they threw out McKay and scored on Ted Seguin's single to center.

Eugene Konicy twirled for the Airtemps against the Grange and he was in top form. He allowed but two hits, fanning nine. Elmer Bertlett pitched well enough to win most games. He allowed five hits but errors hurt his cause. He fanned two.

The Airtemps are scheduled to play Rogers City at the Fair Thursday afternoon.

Today the county league all-stars meet Alcona All-Stars and Wednesday, Merchants' Day, the Alpena Chiefs meet Doc Lister's well loaded Hillman club in what may be the feature game of the Fair.

MOWERY SERVICES

A short funeral service at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Mowery was held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for Mrs. David W. Thompson who died Wednesday afternoon at the age of 83 years. The home service consisted of hymns sung by Mrs. C. A. Eagle and Mrs. C. E. Sherwood, accompanied by Mrs. Loren Briley and prayer given by Mrs. W. Ryan, the regular service being conducted that afternoon at the M. E. church in Boyne Falls by Rev. Frank Green of Owosso, a nephew of David Thompson who died here in 1926. Burial was in the family lot in Boyne Falls. Pall bearers were two sons, David, of Cadillac, and Grant of Atlanta, two nephews, Harry Peil and Arthur Johnson of Cadillac; Harry Smith and Leland Mills.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

Through an unknown cause, Jim Dobbyn lost control of his car Friday evening when within but a few rods of the gate to his home, causing the car to go into a ditch and roll over. His nose was broken and his face severely cut, so that 45 stitches were taken. One eye was almost bared and fear is felt for the sight. Mr. Dobbyn is at the home of his parents, at the junction of M-32 and M-33.

Town Talk

GOOD MORNING!

The first day of school! The second day of the Alpena County Fair—Truly a busy and memorable week. Seems grand to be able to view both with their carefree crowds of men, women and children and know that the war clouds of Europe aren't hovering over America.—The joke the boys in the free acts pulled last night brought a round of applause. It went something like this. "This country is late for everything. Look at the last war, you were way late getting in there." The answer was, "If you think we were late for that war just wait until we get in this one!"—Let's hope the crack of a rifle and the roar of a cannon will never bother a single American.—Walking down with Gerald "Sonny" Craighead who recalled that it has been six years since he answered the first school bell of the year. That's nothing, Sonny, we haven't answered one, except to climb out of bed, for the past 11 years. Boy! Are we getting ancient!—Hub Kamiske drops in with a bit of news concerning a trip he and a host of other Alpena residents took to the Upper Peninsula over the week-end.—Big time newspaper work was created here yesterday when we put out an extra. That was the first Labor Day edition we can remember.—Thus goes a tradition.—This column's personal congratulations to Mike and Mary Jane Fitzpatrick, tennis champions.—And with a chilly but cheery glimpse at everything, we sigh—Adios.

RAMBLINGS

Reports were that London and Paris were "blacked" out in fear of air raids while Berlin was aglow with lights, no fear of harm. Doesn't take much thinking to get the inference as to the aggressor. * International boundary lines evidently didn't bother Michigan residents much at the week-end judging from the number from Alpena who motored to the Ontario Fair and to Quebec points. It would be a rash citizen in the old country who would take a holiday dash over any boundary line right now. * Rogers City is going to stage an Americanism meeting this week, honoring new citizens especially. These meetings surely emphasize the meeting of citizenship and take its acquisition out of just being the run of the mill—make it a ceremony, which it really is. * Guess the stock of tennis balls slumped at the week-end judging from the discussions around this office. Cause? Lot of play-off in the tennis tournament. * That's all—only, nice, friendly week-end, wasn't it, for this part of the world.

Browns Beat, Tie Tigers In Holiday Bill

DETROIT Sept. 5.—Old Home Week, featuring those ex-Tigers of St. Louis ends today at Briggs stadium, much to the joy of the current Detroit Tigers.

The quartet of Chet Laabs, Bob Harris, Mark Christman, and Roxie Lawson, banished to the Brownie salt mines in the Buck Newsom trade, have managed to make life miserable for those who sold them down the river almost every time they hit Detroit.

Win One, Tie One

Yesterday they won one game from the Tigers and forced a tie in the second, halted by darkness in the eighth. The game will be played off today.

Harris shut the Tigers off with five hits in the opener, winning 3 to 2, and Roxie Lawson, coming in as a relief pitcher in the second after his teammates had tied the score at 5-5 with a five-run rally from the Tigers out from there on.

Paul Trout started against Harris, and was never ahead. The Brownies turned a walk into a run with the aid of a single in the second, and after Greenberg's 23rd homer tied it up, St. Louis went ahead again on Christman's triple, followed by a single. Trout's double and McCosky's one-base rap again tied the score, but Pete Laabs became Detroit's downfall in the eighth. He wangled a pass and raced home on Joe Gallagher's double for the deciding run.

Rowe Batted Out

The second game appeared slated as Schoolboy Rowe's ninth victory of the year, with the Tigers jumping off to a five-run lead. McCosky worked Jack Kramer for a pass in the first, stole second, and scored on Gehringer's single. A base on balls and three hits, featuring Pete Fox's double, brought in three more runs in the second and Greenberg's 24th homer made it 5-0 in the third. Rowe went four innings allowing only one hit, but in the fifth he collapsed.

Gallagher singled, Grace singled, and Harshany walked, bringing up Christman who blasted two runs home. Sullivan singled, scoring Harshany. Heffner and Berardino sacrificed, and McQuinn singled to complete the rally before Bud Thomas relieved Rowe and quelled the Browns. Lawson replaced Kramer and the game was a deadlock the rest of the way.

Yanks Virtually In, Reds Still Battling

By George Kirksey

U. P. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The Yankees today were rolling down the home stretch with the American league pennant in the bag.

By kicking the Athletics around twice yesterday 7-6 and 2-0, they placed themselves in a position where they would have to outdo all previous September collapses to toss away the pennant. The Red Sox helped the Yanks more than somewhat by blowing a pair to Washington, 7-6 and 6-4.

Just About In

With a 14½ game lead and only 25 games left to play the Yanks need to win only 12 of them to clinch, the flag regardless of what the Red Sox do. Boston can win all its remaining 26 games and still not finish ahead of the Yanks.

The National league race is something else again. The Reds are doing their best to make it another photo finish. They lost to the Cards yesterday 4-6 and then fought like mad men to gain a 6-6 tie in the nightcap called at the end of the ninth because of darkness. The tie will be played off today, both clubs having open dates. Ed Joost's double and Bill Werber's single in the ninth enabled the Reds to tie the count and saved a double loss. The Cards victory, accomplished with a four-run rally off Whitey Moore in the first frame, trimmed Cincinnati's lead to four games.

Cubs Hopes Fade

Pittsburgh gave the Cubs a dose of their own medicine of September a year ago when they knocked off the Wrigleys 2-1 and 6-3, just about sounding a death knell on the Cubs flickering pennant hopes leaving them eight off the pace. 12 on the losing side. Elbie Fletcher's homer with the bases jammed won the nightcap after Max Butcher had outtwirled Dizzy Dean in the opener.

The Giants regained fourth place by grabbing a doubleheader from the Phillies, 10-0 and 7-6. Billy Jurges' single in the ninth won the nightcap. Kirby Higbe who was knocked out in the first game was also charged with the loss of the nightcap when he came in as a relief pitcher and put the winning run on base.

Brooklyn divided with the Bees, winning the opener 5-4, on Cookie Lavagetto's single and losing the closer 5-2.

Red Rolfe's single in the eighth climaxed a five-run rally which gave the Yanks a 7-6 win over the A's in the opener. Marius Russo hurled a three hitter to give the bombers the nightcap.

Veteran Triples

Charley Gelbert's triple with the bases loaded was the high spot of Washington's rally which won the opener from the Red Sox, 7-6, despite Jimmy Foxx's 33rd homer. Pete Appleton held the Red Sox to four hits in the afterpiece, one of them a homer by Joe Cronin.

The Browns defeated the Tigers 3-2 behind Bob Harris' five-hit pitching but were held to a 5-5 tie called in the eighth because of darkness in the nightcap.

The Chicago White Sox drove Bob Feller from the box with a three-run burst in the 10th to beat the Indians 5-2 before a night crowd of 30,000 in Cleveland. The afternoon game scheduled was rained out.

YESTERDAY'S HERO

Elbie Fletcher who hit his 11th homer with the bases loaded in the second game to give Pittsburgh a twin win over the Cubs.

BURGLARS FIND STAGE MONEY

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Thieves broke into the home of Mrs. Margaret Reinecka while she was on vacation, ransacked the house and scattered bills totaling $500 throughout the house. The greenbacks were only stage money, stored in a bureau drawer.

NEEW ORLEANS (UP)—Here is an illustration of the theory that man is a many-sided creature. Three dealers in alcoholic beverages, notwithstanding the fact that they are often caught redhanded, regularly consume ice cream sodas at their conferences.

"My Sin" Wins Gold Cup Race

By John B. Mills

U. P. Staff Correspondent

DETROIT, Sept. 5. (UP) Back to Greenwich, Conn., today went Zalmon G. Simmons with the Gold Cup speedboat trophy but hardly with a thrilling story to tell.

The easterner, piloting his "My Sin", under the colors of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club found feeble opposition among his western rivals in gunning the stout-hulled speedster 90 miles for a new race record of 66.240 miles per hour.

Three Steady Heats

For three steady, steaming heats Simmons spun the powerful hydroplane on the oval course enclosing the Detroit river middle ground shoal, while the other boats—Notre Dame, Why Worry, So Long, Miss Canada, Mercury wilted under pressure. Even My Sin was not invulnerable to accident, however, as she cracked a pontoon by striking a marker buoy on the last lap, hobbling in to the finish.

Engine trouble halted all except Simmons, who roared with machine-like precision lap after lap in uninteresting fashion. His best lap was the eighth in the first heat when he averaged 70.153 miles an hour. The total average shattered the mark of 64.340 set last year by Count Theo Rossi of Italy, who was held at home this year because of the war.

Rain Holds Show

The first disheartening incident, after the drenching rain that halted racing for two hours, was the failure of the Notre Dame on the second lap of the first heat. A broken steering gear link was repaired in time for the second and third heats, however.

After making an auspicious start by leading for seven laps in the first heat, the much-heralded Miss Canada III of Ingersoll, Ont., had motor trouble and coasted in second to My Sin. It ran two laps on the last heat before motor trouble forced it off the course for the remainder of the race.

In the second heat a short but mildly thrilling duel was staged as My Sin and Why Worry, driven by "Wild Bill" Cantrell of Louisville, Ky., churned stem to stern for two laps before the Why Worry developed a disabling worry in the propellor and was forced out.

Other Results

Lou Fageol's So Long, which banged over the choppy Detroit river in a qualifying trial in the record speed of 88 miles per hour, went to the sidelines in the second heat with a bent propellor.

The Ednandy, piloted by Andy Crawford of Washington, D. C., won the Stark-Hickey trophy race for 135 cubic inch motors, setting a new record in the first heat with an average speed of 51.083 miles an hour.

Softball Card In Final Night

The softball season comes to a grand finale tonight with all eight teams in action.

Only one game remains to be played and if St. Paul's knocks off Huron Portland, that extra game between the Churchers and Koppitz will not be necessary.

The schedule tonight, which culminates 28 games this season, is as follows: Jordan vs. Oddfellows at Bensinger Field; Besser vs. Kolwicki at Fair Grounds (managers are asked to use City Hall diamond); Koppitz vs. [illegible] at Market Square; and Huron vs. St. Paul at McRae Park.

The city series will get under way Monday, September 11, at Alpena Sports Park with Jordan [illegible] meeting the second half [illegible] Koppitz.

Doubles Play Nears Finals

Doubles competition in the North Eastern Michigan novice tennis tourney was virtually in the final round today as five combinations swung into action in an abbreviated bracket Monday.

Due to the lateness of the season it was decided not to hold up doubles play any longer and as a result, Rogers City and East Tawas entries, which did not put in an appearance Monday, were excluded.

Up in one finals bracket is a husky team of Willet Rondeau and Bill McGirr. They won two matches Monday to win a semi-final bye. They eliminated Bob Reynolds and George Thompson 6-2 and 7-5 and then blasted Bud Kasperski and Barney Fiandt from competition. The latter combination had beaten Bob Kurtz and Jimmie Campbell in their opening match.

Charlie Sabourin and Ted Glentz downed Larry Stevens and Clarence Kotwicki in the first round but ran into Phil Richards and Bob Deyoe in the second and were eliminated. The Deyoe-Richards combination had beaten Gene Zelasny and Bob Mischley.

Al Tadajewski and Jim McArthur downed Arnie Soltysiak and Bill Seguin and drew a second round bye. This week they must meet the Deyoe-Richards team for the right to enter the finals.

No date has been set for either match, pending contact with contesting players.

Doubles competition will conclude the 1939 tournament sponsored jointly by The Alpena News and the Chamber of Commerce.

Richards and Wysocki Bow After Scraps

A tall, lanky 18-year old Irishman who will enter Notre Dame University, and his 16-year old, blonde haired sister, student at St. Bernard's, were crowned singles champions of the NorthEastern Michigan novice tennis tournament Sunday following their triumphs in the finals.

Pals Decide Issue

Mike Fitzpatrick, graduate of Alpena high school, and who is enrolled at Notre Dame, eliminated the men's tournament which included 34 entries from three cities by outlasting Philip Richards, his bosom pal and running mate, a sophomore at the Irish school, in four sets at Ninth avenue court. The scores were 6-3, 6-2, 7-9 and 6-3.

His sister, Mary Jane, playing a brilliant brand of tennis after a bad start, took a straight set triumph from scrappy Marie Wysocki who once more was unable to bridge the gap from second to first place. The scores were 7-5 and 6-3.

Injured Twin Watches

Sitting on the sidelines in a wheel chair as the Fitzpatrick clan copped the two gold trophies were members of the Fitzpatrick family including Emmet Fitzpatrick, twin brother to Mary Jane. Emmet was brought to the court by friends. He fractured his right leg some weeks ago in an accident but it didn't stop him from being there to cheer loudly for both winners. Mrs. Fitzpatrick was also an interested spectator.

In winning his title, Mike eliminated four opponents, topping his victorious scrap with a victory over Bobby Deyoe, blonde-haired youngster who was figured to advance to the finals. Mike eliminated him Sunday in the semi-finals in a gruelling three set argument.

Richards had a somewhat easier time. He won by default his first round, whipped Leo Zencka his second and trounced Leon Rusk, Rogers City, in his third. He drew a bye the fourth round. In the semi-final, he defeated speedy Charlie Sabourin in a three-set scrap.

Cook Is Beaten

Bill Cook, Rogers City ace, was eliminated by Deyoe Saturday afternoon, 6-4 and 7-5. Deyoe then advanced to the finals by whipping Larry Stevens.

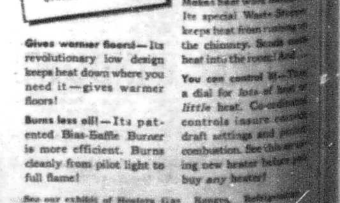

Both finalists clearly showed the strain of morning competition. Fitzpatrick unleashed a brilliant service and grabbed off the first two sets before Richards broke through to cop a red-hot session 9-7. Richards was almost exhausted in the fourth set and fell victim to the pressing Fitz. Trying gamely Richards forced the match game to deuce, only to lose it when, with the match at set point, he served doubles.

Rally Saves Set

Mary Jane Fitzpatrick dropped the first five games of the first set to Marie Wysocki before she managed to get her service in order. After that she swept through seven consecutive games to pull the set from the fire. Miss Wysocki wilted after that. It marked the second time this summer that the youthful St. Anne's graduate was beaten in the finals. She dropped a title to Mrs. Ralph Bailey at East Tawas.

The tournament, which moved to the doubles angle Monday, is sponsored jointly by The Alpena News and the Chamber of Commerce.

ALLEY OOP

By HAMLIN

Good Evening by Pat Richards

The column Friday printed most of Cy O'Toole's story of the "impossible" canoe trip made last week by Howard Broad and Al Bruss of Detroit from the Turtle Lake area to the Alpena section.

Cy closed the account as follows:

Later in the morning they went through the most satisfying part of the trip. They were on a portion of the river to which there was no access except by their route. For miles not even the semblance of a trail led to the river's edge. Wild game was plentiful, deer drinking in the stream showed no concern whatever at the passage of the canoe and its occupants. Both Mr. Broad and Mr. Bruss were unanimous in their opinion that this stretch was a veritable paradise for wildfowl. In spots where the bank growth was so dense that the branches met overhead, were seen thousands of wild ducks, especially noted were the great amount of young mallards swimming in these shady spots and feeding in the quiet waters.

"Since the going had become better now they made excellent time with the aid of the swifter current in the deeper water. They entered the main river near US-23 and lifted their canoe from the water at the bridge near Long Rapids, completely satisfied with their outing.

"They followed county maps throughout the trip and noted that the stream as shown on the Alpena County map is not accurate due no doubt, to the current cutting new channels in the area covered by the tremendous backwater of the upper south branch.

"They highly recommend the trip to anyone willing to undergo a little hardship for the thrill of seeing this beautiful, almost virgin territory so few miles from Alpena."

"Altogether the trip covered approximately forty miles and consumed two days time, but was one that will long be remembered."

The two Detroit men put their canoe into the water on Monday morning, Aug. 21, and finished the trip the following afternoon.

As Cy said, the travelers certainly saw some beautiful, unsettled country a remarkably short distance from the city. Maybe the trip and its successful negotiation will incite other outdoorsmen to make a similar jaunt. I agree that the thrill of making such a journey is more than enough to compensate for the labor of hauling canoe and supplies over almost impassable portages.

Thanks for the story, Cy.

The News of Thursday carried a story of a radio broadcast by Wythe Williams, editor of the Greenwich, Conn., Time in which Williams said that Hitler is threatened with a revolution because some military leaders do not want war. These leaders have caused a dangerous split in the Nazi party the editor said, and Hitler finds himself "on the horns of a dilemma."

Williams further said: "If Hitler retreats he will lose face in his own country and be overthrown by revolution. If he enters into a long, expensive war with the democracies, he will be doomed to defeat on the battlefield. Either way, he has stuck his neck out too far and the noose is closing in on him. But that does not mean that he may not cause tremendous damage before it tightens."

At first glance these statements may look like the ramblings of an uninformed person in whose words the wish is father to the thought. They assume a special significance, however when certain facts are considered.

In the first place Williams is a former foreign correspondent who is well acquainted with the subject on which he speaks. In the second place he has already made a series of predictions, starting at the time, which later proved to be true. His success as a prognosticator may be due to some source of information close to the fuehrer or to some "sixth sense." In either event he has proved himself a remarkable prophet and on the basis of past performance his radio statements the other night should not be taken lightly.

The people of Germany in spite of the high pressure hate propaganda being showered upon them by their government, must be facing the road to war in anything but high spirits.

A dispatch Friday said that not one "Heil Hitler" has been heard in Berlin for several days. Crowds nervously pacing in front of Hitler's chancellery have not once cried out as usual for a glimpse of "our fuehrer."

When newspapers bearing the headline "Poland Rejects Peace" were distributed among them, they read the news in silence and quietly dispersed to return home.

Hardly the attitude of a people who want to throw themselves in to war.

SERIAL STORY
Murder on the Boardwalk
BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER XVIII

Mr. Wilmet had sprung to his feet.

"But this is preposterous!" he cried. "Why—why, I was the one who brought you here! If I—"

"Because, Inspector"—Chandra's voice was a gentle purr—"another trait Earl Talbert shared with his aunt, Inspector, was the delusion that, single-handed, he could outwit the world. But now"—the clairvoyant stood, suddenly very tall, it seemed to Christine, over the blustering little man—"he is going to tell the whole story.

"You are going to tell us, my friend, how gloating over the trick by which you robbed your aunt 12 years ago, you persuaded yourself that you were sufficiently the 'master mind' for a much more daring crime. . . . I doubt if you intended murder in the beginning. But probably, after you had drugged Mrs. Talbert and taken what you supposed to be valuable bonds, you realized that she had recognized you"—

"I didn't!" Mr. Wilmet's round face was white and drenched with sweat. "I—why, I never heard of the woman before last night. Inspector, he's trying to—for God's sake don't let him do this."

He was cowering before the clairvoyant as he might before an evil genius.

For without any of the trappings or stage-setting of his craft, Chandra was again the Oriental mystic Christine had seen that other night; his voice was the purring hypnotic voice of the seer; his blazing yellow eyes held Mr. Wilmet's eyes as if in a snare.

It was mummery, but it was terribly convincing mummery.

"Tell them," he commanded, "how, before you had drugged your aunt into helplessness, you forced her to write those letters. Tell them how, after you had held her in her own car while you made sure Jaspar had obeyed her orders, you drove her, by night, to her own abandoned home and hid her there while you rifled the house for anything you might find that could help to point suspicion to someone else.

"Tell them that you even felt safe in leaving her alone there, drugged as she was, because you remembered her prejudice against the police and you knew that Jaspar would respect her orders. Tell them how you found Miss Thorenson's photograph and her telegram, saying when she would arrive, and thought how cunningly you might turn them to your own advantage.

"Perhaps at first you considered killing your aunt there in her empty house, but it was necessary to your infantile exhibitionism to do the thing in a really spectacular way, and you had more ideas than you knew what to do with. Tell them how, after you had entered the house with Mrs. Talbert's own key"—

"But how could I?" Mr. Wilmet's cry was shrill with triumph. "Why, she didn't have a key."

Jaspar broke a shocked silence.

"He's right, Inspector," he murmured. "Mrs. Talbert hadn't taken her key with her."

Christine, watching as if in a fantastic nightmare, saw the little man freeze as he understood how much he had told in those five words, then leap to his feet and dash blindly, straight into the arms of two uniformed men who had appeared in the doorway.

"Get his keys," the inspector ordered.

When one of the officers handed the ring to him, he passed it to Jaspar, a silent question in the gesture.

"Yes, sir," Jaspar almost whispered. "The middle one."

"All right. Take him to the bureau. . . . Well"—even Inspector Parsons looked white and shaken as his subordinates led the hysterical man away. "I've seen a third degree or two, but at least policemen don't hit mugs over the head with black magic. . . . And now suppose you tell me how you know all this."

"Because, sir," Jaspar spoke, "after I left your office last night, I thought it best to have a look at the house. I'd kept one key because I felt that as soon as I could, I must go back. . . . But someone had been there before me. Everything was turned upside down."

"Much as we found it when we went out early this morning," the inspector nodded. "Perhaps you'll understand now why I was so much interested in your keys, Yardley. That story you told about absent-mindedly taking a key from a strange car and putting it into your pocket sounded pretty feeble. . . . Anything taken, Jaspar?"

"Mrs. Talbert's will, sir—I suppose it was he sent that to the newspapers—and a pair of Mrs. Talbert's shoes."

"The ones," the inspector explained, "that her nephew put on to make that false trail to the booth. One of my men found them buried deep in the sand where Yardley told us about having seen Wilmet pottering around the evening before. Until now I wasn't entirely sure Mr. Yardley hadn't put them there himself."

"And," Jaspar finished, "Miss Christine's signed portrait and her message saying when she would arrive. I wouldn't be surprised if he was at the station when her train came in."

"He was at the newsstand, hidden behind a paper," Chandra confirmed that. "And he followed her to her hotel."

"Well" the inspector looked almost satisfied—"now we only need those faked bonds."

From a tangle of images, one started out clean-lined in Christine's tired memory.

"I think that if you pried up the top of that stone bench at the back of the booth," she said, "you might find something underneath."

When she explained about that first morning—her heel sinking into soft concrete, Mr. Wilmet's voluble explanations—the inspector went to the telephone and gave an order.

"Altogether," he said, turning back, "that bird used up enough ideas in one murder to last a good honest crook a lifetime. . . . But the thing that puzzled me worst—he apparently hadn't had a finger in. . . . You wondered how I knew that those bonds were your cousin's, Miss Thorenson. I found something among them that you missed."

He took a folded paper from his pocket and handed it to Christine.

It was a short note in Cousin Emma's hand.

"My dear Christine," it said.

"If anything should happen to prevent our visit, Jaspar will hand you these. Take good care of them, for the bonds are non-registered; so, of course, any one could use them. They are yours, as most of what I possess will be in the end.

Affectionately yours,
Emma Talbert."

"This morning," the inspector said, "I'd have sold my soul to know who really wrote that."

The telephone rang, and he hurried to answer.

"He has? Good work!" they heard him say. "I'll be right up. . . . Well," he hung up. "Miss Thorenson was right about that bench. Mr. Earl Talbert has shot the works in his confession. I guess that cleans up the slate."

"Not entirely," Chandra extended a hand. "I'd like my glasses."

"Your—what?"

"I was sure," Chandra explained evenly, "that he'd lost his spares somewhere—even if it wasn't in my studio—or he would not have been wearing a pair of sun-glasses with ordinary lenses."

"You mean," the inspector said after a blank silence, "that you hypnotized that poor nut with your own spectacle case?"

"Something like that," Chandra admitted.

Then he murmured with a strange, tired smile—Christine recognized the quotation—"But there was something in it—tricks and all."

Nazis Report Wide Advance

was taken and the Skava river was crossed near Wadowice.

"The enemy is evacuating the Upper Silesian industrial district. East Prussian troops took Mlava and its fortifications in bitter hand-to-hand fighting."

Hitler on Polish Soil

The communique said Fuehrer Adolf Hitler was on Polish soil with the troops.

Hitler, the army announced, yesterday witnessed the crossing of the Vistula river by German troops operating south of Chum. These troops, the communique said, now are operating on the east bank of the Vistula.

Still denying that there was any activity on the western front, two days after Britain and France declared war, Nazi sources admitted a few thrusts into German territory by both British and Polish airplanes.

Polish planes bombed Oderbeltsch, near Guhren, Silesia, last Saturday night but the bombs fell harmlessly into fields and a lake, it was reported.

On the economic side, however, the war, still undeclared by Germany, was being felt. The ministerial council for Reich defense imposed a surtax of 50 per cent onto the income tax rates already in force. It applied to everyone earning 2,400 marks ($960) or more a month. A 20 per cent surtax was placed on beer and tobacco and "severest penalties" were decreed for destroying, removing or hoarding vital raw materials.

"This applies to money hoarding," it was announced.

At wide variance with reports from Warsaw where it was said the Polish troops were holding their own in most places on the frontier, were Nazi announcements that the German onslaught had driven 150 miles into Poland at some points. It was announced that the German army had driven a wedge all the way across the Polish Corridor.

A new threat to Warsaw developed in Nazi reports saying that Prasasnysz, 58 miles directly north of the capital had been taken by a force from East Prussia. It had been expected that before driving toward Warsaw Germans would have to face a major battle for mastery of the Graudenz-Bromberg-Thorn triangle area, where the Poles have strong forces commanding the gateway to the Corridor.

Now, with Germans allegedly in control of a line of march across the Corridor, it was said that they could move heavy reinforcements to East Prussia, thence southward to Prasasnysz, using it as a base of operations against Warsaw.

Poles Routed, Report

It was announced that the German army advancing into southwest Poland had extended its northern wing to capture Ostrow, 60 miles south of Posen on the Katowice railroad, and Lissa, 30 miles southwest of Iosen.

A War Ministry communique this morning said Polish troops had been routed in the southern industrial area, north of the high tetras of the Slovak border, and were fleeing into and beyond Cracow, industrial center of 221,000 population, so fast that at many places the following Germans were finding no opposition.

Torpedoed British Liner

The British merchant ship Athenia, torpedoed with 1,400 passengers aboard 200 miles west of the Heb rides Islands. The Cunard-White Star liner was out of Glasgow for Montreal and overloaded with war refugees, including many Americans.

French Army Into Trenches

to this noon had been preliminary and that there had been no fighting, other than the British bombardment of the German navy at Wilhelmshaven and Brunsbettel, on the Kiel canal.

Germany claimed that 12 British bombers were shot down and the British announced the raid was "successful," apparently damaging or destroying two German warships.

Report Disorder in Germany

From Paris came reports by the semi-official radio agency that there might be serious trouble in Germany. While such indirect reports were discounted pending further details, the dispatches said there had been disorders in Cologne, Dusseldorf and Essen as well as in the former Czechoslovakia.

Paris, which experienced its first air raid alarm this morning, awaited eagerly news of the first French onslaught against the German fortifications—the lines—in the Rhineland, with the view general that French strategy would be to try to break through at each end for an encircling movement against Nazis. About 3,000,000 men were under arms in France and more were called up hourly. The German defenses in the west are now said to be manned by around 500,000 men.

Japan formally notified the big powers, including the United States, that she would remain neutral.

Throughout the British and French empires, declarations of support were sent to London and Paris and preparations to fight were rushed. The South African parliament at Capetown voted 80 to 67 to sever relations with Germany and anti-German rioting broke out at Johannesburg.

France's African colonial chieftains pledged support to the Paris government.

One significant development, however was in Rome where an official communique said that Premier Benito Mussolini's efforts to save peace had failed because Hitler refused to agree to withdraw his troops from Poland.

Pioneer Gasoline Chemist Can't Drive, Never Owned Auto

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A man who pioneered in development of the gasoline industry has never owned an automobile.

Charles Skeele Palmer, one of the first to develop a process for transforming crude oil into gasoline and thus paving the way for modern land and air transportation, is in retirement today—a student of the classics and astronomy. Neither he nor his family owns an automobile.

It was back in 1907 that Dr. Palmer then a professor of chemistry at the University of Colorado, invented his process for "cracking" or distilling crude oils, making it possible eventually for the industry to supply cheap gasolines in commercial quantities.

"I got the idea back in 1899," Dr. Palmer recalls. "We had [illegible] what was crude gasoline in its natural state in the earth. I knew it had been produced geologically by tremendous heat and pressure, so I set out to reproduce artificially what had been done in nature.

"I had a long steel cylinder constructed into which I poured crude oils. Then I subjected the oil to extreme heat and pressure and [illegible] ed the distillates. One of them was gasoline.

"Naturally, it was a crude product compared with the [illegible] they are making today. But it was gasoline even though it took [illegible] two years to work out the process."

Dr. Palmer patented the process in 1912 when it was [illegible] Standard Oil Company of Indiana. His financial reward was [illegible]

"It was a mere pittance," [illegible] daughter, Leigh Palmer, with whom he lives here, "considering what it was worth to the oil industry."

Since his retirement, Dr. Palmer who has "just turned 81," [illegible] his time reading the Bible and Shakespeare and deciphering the Baconian code. On clear nights he peers at the heavens through a telescope.

As for automobiles, well, the inventor said, "There's never been one in the family. Not a one of us can drive. But I do take rides in them occasionally with my friends."

LONG-BURNING SMOKES have a big appeal for Joe Williams, as well as for many another cigarette smoker. Joe, whose keen comments on sports are eagerly read by millions of fans, is equally "in the know" on cigarettes too. He says: "Every Camel gives me an extra period of cigarette enjoyment—a longer smoke, and a milder, cooler, mellower smoke! Naturally, such a cigarette has a more appealing taste. Yes, sir," Joe concludes, "it's a real thrill to smoke a Camel." You, too, will find that Camel's long-burning, costlier tobaccos do give more pleasure per puff—AND—more puffs per pack. That's pleasure plus economy—a shrewd buy. No wonder America's smokers have made Camels their cigarette choice No. 1.
